

The forbidden land

Against the gloomy mountain the lone mysterious figure suddenly looked up and saw a vast eagle ruling the sky. The stunning creature flew through the dark black mist along with its glisten sapphire eyes. Meanwhile the loner kept on going with his animal friend. A while later the pair came across a blinding bright light. The man was curious to reveal what was behind the light the man took a few steps and he saw ...

A massive rib cage like bridge. His horse, which had dark black silky fur, slowly trotted across the narrow path. The bridge had patterns carved into the stone.

When the wanderer got to the mysterious door it suddenly opened and there was a dark passage way. He entered and the stone door slammed shut not to be opened ever again. Even through the rock hard brick the loner could still hear the eagles squawking.

The figure and his horse quickly cantered down the spiral staircase. The loner entered a huge hall it was full of strange statues, unexpectedly he looked up and saw a light beaming down.

He picked up a bundle of blanket and carried it to the altar, as he pulled of the blanket a beautiful girl was reviled she had soft silky shiny black hair and was wearing a dress as white as snow.

It was just a few months ago when Jacob and his sister went camping. Everything was going so well when Melissa ate a bowl of poisonous berries before she went to bed, so in the morning, it was so tragic, she was dead or was she?

Suddenly there was a change in the weather, it started to rumble and thunder burst over the land. Jacob looked up and saw grey clouds. His clip clopping horse whinnied and tried to trot away as he was afraid of the evil storm. "Who is trespassing my land", boomed the mysterious voice.

Jacob nervously said, "I'm here to bring my sister back to life" The voice explained that if he wanted to see his sister breathing again he had to kill the terrible monster blakious. The sword will show you the way to Blakious's burrow. So Jacob raised his sword into the air and a ray of blue light shot into the air leading the way to the demon. His horse quickly galloped. Finally they got to the monsters burrow. He climbed up the rocky mountain, at last he got to the top and he saw...

As Jacob looked around for the beast. A colossal beast emerged he had bulky muscular arms and legs, from Jacobs point of view he was like towering big ben. The monster ran away as Jacob was blinding him with the brightness of his sword. As the monster ran away he was breaking the ground. The wanderer chased after the monster and finally caught hold of him. Jacob clambered up his hair and stabbed him in the leg to make him Weaker. He kept on going and got ready to kill 3 2 1...

Blakious fell to the ground as did Jacob. Blakious had a heart attack and Jacob bleed to death so that was the end of Jacob and as for Mellissa she never got to live the rest of her life.

THE END

By Jessie