

The Dark colossus

By Amelia Harvey

Swooping quickly an eagle glided past the rocky vast cliff and sharply turned as the fluffy wing gently flew past and hit the edge of the sharp, snowy cliff. The dark gloomy sky was as dark as a black pen whilst the stars went by and faded by the darkness!

Through the dark gentle forest the horse trotted on the crunchy coloured leafs which were mestyerous and quit you can hear a bubble pop!

Finally he saw some bright light on this beautiful green meadow flew a pretty butterfly whilst the bees were buzzing by. As the horse felt his feet the man shouted trot on! Then he saw a bright gap in the wall and was wandering where he was?

There in front of him was an amazing 400m high bridge. All of the long traveling had done he finally found somewhere with beautiful golden sand and cliffs all around him he couldn't believe his eyes. The horse slowly trotted on.

As soon as I saw the eagles I knew I was somewhere special, the door was arched and you couldn't hear a sound it seemed like it was pitch black and the horse whinnied because it was very scared.

The door closed soon as he got into the mysterious cave, it was as black as a bat!

As soon as he went into the domed spiral staircase he entered the light room. He noticed some weird statues. He put the gentle girl that he carried all the way and put her down on the bed he stared at her and realised that she was a special, sacred person and he loved her and would always remember her.

After putting the precious girl down he stared down into her beautiful blue eyes but heard something mysterious behind him so turned around in shock and spotted the terror rascals and got his metal sword out! He wondered how this happened, he must have trespassed!

Arion thought back to his childhood and remembered the tale of the dead. The story told of a man who went on a journey to a mysterious castle and brought the soul back of his dead wife. When his wife died from touching poison ivy Arion knew that he had to save her and so he followed the legends rules.

Suddenly thunder rumbled in the sky and a booming voice said, "who are you and what do you want?"

Arion said, "I want you to bring back my precious sally please."

Dormin said, "Only if you bring me the dead snakes head and if I have your sword now."

Arion said "Can I fight with the sword to defeat the viper"

"fine then" said Dormin.

Arion got on his horse and he sprinted off. After a while he got hungry so he shot a lizard to eat his food. Arion climbed up the ruins and left his horse behind. Arion climbed all the veins but inside his heart he knew that he had to go quickly so he could save his beloved wife.

Arion ran and out of nowhere came the humongous, encrusted beast. Arion sharply takes out his magic sword and stared at it for a while to see where his weak spot was. So he shot up his sword and it flashed like no other, He ran into the dusty, black dirt and jumped up the thick brown fur, He stabbed the hairy beast in the head. The beast fell to his knees in pain.

The fury brown beast dropped his hammer onto the floor and all the dust fell in front of Arion, Arion choked loudly but was ok and survived.

The 2 legged beast was hard to defeat but Arion had to stab it a few times so it would actually die. Arion couldn't believe that he could kill it without dying.

Arion went back to the temple in pain he jumped on to his horse dying when the horse trotted on Arion died of saving his wife. Dormin got the soul from Arion and gave the girl back to life but it just wouldn't work, he tried and he tried.

In the end Arion and Sally didn't survive but they were both still together in their dreams.
